Daniel Nachum

Tel Aviv, Israel
+972-54-733-6304
oberman.daniel@gmail.com
GitHub | LinkedIn
(See recommendations on LinkedIn)

Summary

Helping startups tell what makes their product different, and empowering thousands of product marketers to tell theirs through PMMiya Community, with content such as podcasts, webinars and events.

Professional Experience

Demostack, Tel Aviv, March 2026 to August 2026
Founding Product Marketing Manager

- Fully owned the launch of the company's new agentic offering, from product ideation and GTM planning through go-live and customer adoption, covering positioning, naming, value-driven messaging, competitor differentiation, collateral, customer validation, website content, PR, field training and announcement comms.
- Enabled Sales and CS through group sessions, a constantly updated content hub and 1:1 coaching, including prep for high-stakes calls, RFP responses and win-loss reviews.
- Proactively engaged with customers and prospects (F2F, Zoom, Gong) to extract unknown use cases and needs that shaped the roadmap and narrative, and to produce testimonial deliverables and G2 reviews.
- Drove pipeline and brand exposure across multiple go-to-market motions, such as:
    - Community- and partner-led collaborations with influencers relevant to Demostack's ICP, including the organization of a vibe coding hackathon that generated 3 enterprise SQLs.
    - Organic and paid campaigns based on product marketing content.
- Built a marketing brain, a single source of truth holding the most relevant messages and documentation, and connected it to AI workflows that produced sales slides, mockups, one-pagers and testimonial assets without depending on design or PM.

PMMiya Community, Tel Aviv, February 2026 to present

- Host a series of live stream events on how to champion product marketing in cybersecurity with PMM leaders from the security ecosystem. Recent guest: Eyal Webber-Zvik from Cato Networks.
- Manage Israel's largest product marketing community, delivering high-quality content in the form of meetups, podcasts and webinars packed with practical, ready-to-apply GTM insights.

Windward Maritime AI, Tel Aviv, May 2023 to May 2025
Product Marketing Manager

- Owned product marketing for Windward's newest business line, the main driver of its acquisition in 2025.
- Launched 3 technical products, translating complex features into solutions with clear, marketable value for target buyers.
- Served as the go-to subject matter expert on both domain and platform topics, training customer-facing teams, guiding strategic initiatives across the organization and speaking in public forums such as webinars, briefings and trade conferences.
- Led the go-to-market strategy and execution, from identifying audiences, use cases and USPs to upskilling the business unit and deploying the marketing plan, with a data-driven focus on measurable outcomes and KPIs.
- Collaborated with analysts, industry thought leaders and award organizations to position Windward as a category leader, contributing to its inclusion in the Gartner Magic Quadrant.
- Ran competitive and market intelligence through a structured program of client and prospect interviews and competitor tracking, turning insights into narrative, campaign and roadmap decisions.

- Wrote product marketing content daily, including landing pages, case studies and whitepapers, tailored to enterprise buying cycles and aligned to the right personas to move prospects through the funnel.
- Developed user-facing tutorials, feature announcements and demo videos focused on clarity, simplicity and practical use.
- Built awareness through earned media, bringing Windward's proprietary data to global outlets such as The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal and the BBC, and working closely with reporters to frame the angle that would interest them most.

Cellebrite (NASDAQ: CLBT), Petah Tikva, December 2021 to April 2023
Senior Manager, Product Marketing

- Strengthened the company's positioning as a digital intelligence leader for law enforcement agencies, moving away from the offensive cybersecurity label, with real cases customers solved as the proof, told through analyst briefings, published testimonials, field enablement and industry conference talks.
- Briefed IDC analysts on the digital intelligence story, earning Cellebrite a Leader spot in the 2022 IDC MarketScape for digital forensics, and leveraged the recognition with leadership and customer-facing teams to enhance business opportunities.
- Drove launches end to end with Product and R&D, from naming and messaging to talk track, release assets and rollout across channels.
- Built ongoing customer engagement programs: testimonials, surveys that evolved into published reports and localized field activities.
- Executed large-scale training events, including SKO, resulting in field and CS teams being equipped with sharp, persuasive stories and the domain expertise needed to win.
- Armed sales reps with the enablement they used to close deals: battlecards, objection handling, discovery guides, demo scripts, competitive analyses and pitch decks.
- Translated technical forensic capabilities into crisp, buyer-facing content for inbound and outbound motions.

Big Shot, Tel Aviv, December 2020 to December 2021
B2C Marketing Manager

Globes, Rishon LeZion, February 2019 to November 2020
Website Content Creator and Editor

Education and Credentials

Economics Studies, 2020
Hebrew University

Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) in Politics, Sociology and Communication (magna cum laude), 2017
The Academic College of Tel Aviv-Yaffo

Additional Information

Languages: Hebrew, English (bilingual)

Technical Proficiencies:

- Content creation: Claude, Figma, Canva, ChatGPT, Gemini, Google Slides, Microsoft 365, Infogram
- CRM and automation: HubSpot, Salesforce, GetResponse, Monday, Asana, Notion
- Sales enablement: Guru, Seismic, Google Drive